

Have you started setting your sights on any career plans?

Do you have any careers in mind for your future? Do you plan to go to college or technical school after high school? “What’s the big rush?” you ask. You have several years before you graduate from high school. Why worry about what you’re going to do afterward?

Keep your options open!

There’s a whole world of exciting career options out there. And there are many different possible ways for you to prepare for those careers. It’s okay if you don’t know what you want to be yet. In fact, it is natural and even good to not focus on a specific career path at your age. You don’t have to decide now whether you want to go on to school after you graduate, either. Now is the perfect time to explore the possibilities and plan for high school. That way, no matter what you decide to do after graduation, all doors will be open.

Why worry about high school now?

With all the subjects you’ll need to take in high school and all the cool electives you can choose, it is important you plan well ahead of time what courses to take each of the four years. Make sure you take as many courses as you can in high school while they’re free, rather than paying for them in college!

contents

Setting your sights on career plans.....	inside front cover
The big deal about career planning.....	1
Test your career knowledge.....	3
The buying power of education.....	4
Steps to your future.....	5
Look within – values, comfort zones, skills & aptitudes.....	6
Trending – hot careers.....	9
When I grow up.....	10
Need directions? Interest survey.....	10
Career clusters.....	16
Learn more/career exploration questions.....	33
Monthly budget.....	34
Core building.....	37
Be prepared.....	38
Ya gotta getta plan.....	42
SD high school graduation requirements.....	43
SD Board of Regents admission & scholarship requirements.....	44
Higher ed.....	45
Habits to break while in school.....	47
The sky’s the limit.....	48
Websites for career information.....	inside back cover